Flag: Follow up

Hi Alex,

Just confirming that we will have the following attendees in person at EPA tomorrow for the 1 pm meeting at the North entrance. We'll be there early to get through security. We'll have 11 companies represented in person and 19 companies on the phone. Some folks had to cancel and others are calling in now because of the situation with the hurricanes (Target, Ingersoll Rand and several of the foam companies). I have arranged for a conference line for the meeting.

Folks wanted to confirm who will attend tomorrow from EPA. I assured them that you, Erik, and Mandy plan to attend as well as other important staff members. One company in particular was wondering if Sarah Dunham would be present?

Finally, thank-you again for arranging for this meeting. As this industry has processed the outcome of the SNAP decision, more and more companies have grown very concerned about the way that it will impact their businesses long term. We appreciate your support to allow their concerns to be heard.

Thank-you and see you tomorrow!

Helen – Appreciate the information. We will be using the same OGC room as last week which has 12 seats at the table and roughly 20 or so chairs around the perimeter of the room. Just let me know when you firm up the list of attendees and I'll send that down to security. As long as I give it to them at least two days in advance of the meeting we'll be fine. Anything else in the meantime just let me know.

Alex,

Here are the companies that are requesting to participate in the discussion about the request for an en banc appeal. I am working on confirming the final list, but I'm thinking that I will try to limit participation because of conference room size limits.

Ingersoll Rand, Lennox International, Emerson, Hill Phoenix, Daikin Applied Americas, Danfoss, 3M, Spray Products, Demilec, LaPolla, NCFI Polyurethanes, ESCO, and some of the other companies that signed the attached letter were involved in the original request.

We have had additional requests for participation from AHRI members like Carter Retail, Bacharach, KW RMS, Bitzer, Parker Sporlan, and others since they voted to support an EPA appeal of the decision this week. I'll likely include the larger ones like UTC/Carrier and Nortec if they're available on Friday, but I may try to limit the number of others so that this doesn't get too large.

Thank-you again for your help with the logistics,
Helen

We are still working on the list of attendees, but I thought we should at least start with this list so that you have a ballpark number. I will push folks to finalize their commitments by tomorrow. We have tried to encourage some of the other companies to attend by phone since I'm concerned about the room filling up.

Alex,

That would be perfect!!!! Thank-you. I'll send you a list of attendees by the end of the week. Air-Conditioning, Heating and Refrigeration Institute (AHRI) members want to attend since they voted by a very strong majority to support the appeal this week. AHRI represents the equipment manufacturers for a large portion of the industry using fluorochemicals.

Thank-you for your flexibility!

We do not have anyone calling in but would prefer to use ours.

Not a problem, happy to help. I appreciate that - these sorts of meetings don't always make the best introductions so more than happy to talk sometime.

See you all in a few hours.

Alex,
This is very helpful information.

Do you all have folks calling in? If not, could we use my number since I've already communicated it to folks or does that create an issue?

Thanks again to all of your help. At some point, I'd like to hear more about your background and your plans and have a proper introductory discussion.

All the best,
Helen

Hey Helen – Apologies for not getting back to you last night. Yes we are all set for today at 1:00.

We already have a conference line set up so if you can just pass the number below to anyone calling in that would be great.

Conference Line: Personal Phone / Ex. 6
Passcode: Personal Phone / Ex. 6

Sarah Dunham is not expected to be at the meeting. Myself, Erik, and Mandy will be there. Sarah Greenwalt (who was at our last meeting) is on travel today and unable to phone in, but asked I give her a run-down on Monday.

Anything else just let me know.

Subject: Stakeholder meeting - 1pm Friday

Hi Alex,

Just confirming that we will have the following attendees in person at EPA tomorrow for the 1 pm meeting at the North entrance. We'll be there early to get through security. We'll have 11 companies represented in person and 19 companies on the phone. Some folks had to cancel and others are calling in now because of the situation with the hurricanes (Target, Ingersoll Rand and several of the foam companies). I have arranged for a conference line for the meeting.

Folks wanted to confirm who will attend tomorrow from EPA. I assured them that you, Erik, and Mandy plan to attend as well as other important staff members. One company in particular was wondering if Sarah Dunham would be present?

Finally, thank-you again for arranging for this meeting. As this industry has processed the outcome of the SNAP decision, more and more companies have grown very concerned about the way that it will impact their businesses long term. We appreciate your support to allow their concerns to be heard.

Thank-you and see you tomorrow!

Helen – Appreciate the information. We will be using the same OGC room as last week which has 12 seats at the table and roughly 20 or so chairs around the perimeter of the room. Just let me know when you firm up the list of attendees and I'll send that down to security. As long as I give it to them at least two days in advance of the meeting we'll be fine. Anything else in the meantime just let me know.

Subject: Conference Room size?

Alex,
Here are the companies that are requesting to participate in the discussion about the request for an en banc appeal. I am working on confirming the final list, but I'm thinking that I will try to limit participation because of conference room size limits.

Ingersoll Rand, Lennox International, Emerson, Hill Phoenix, Daikin Applied Americas, Danfoss, 3M, Spray Products, Demilec, LaPolla, NCFI Polyurethanes, ESCO, and some of the other companies that signed the attached letter were involved in the original request.

We have had additional requests for participation from AHRI members like Carter Retail, Bacharach, KW RMS, Bitzer, Parker Sporlan, and others since they voted to support an EPA appeal of the decision this week. I'll likely include the larger ones like UTC/Carrier and Nortec if they're available on Friday, but I may try to limit the number of others so that this doesn't get too large.

Thank-you again for your help with the logistics,
Helen
